

I support XM and the move towards more specialized features such as traffic and weather. Although these such features are not quite available in my area "yet", I look forward to the future benefits. I am a traveling programmer taking care of 4 adjacent states around Colorado, where I have found XM services to be the only reliable source of information and entertainment for the countless hours behind the wheel. I feel as a "paying subscriber" that these services in question are worth while and a must. Thank you
